All,

Today's topic is specific to our collective use of video conferencing. As our teachers provide enhanced learning opportunities for your student(s) we know that video conferencing is a great way to connect. We also know that the extensive use of video conferencing falls in uncharted territories for everyone. Of the utmost importance to you, your student(s) and our teachers is that we continue to respect privacy and intellectual property rights of the Dudley-Charlton Regional School District. Therefore, we need an agreement that ensures integrity and responsibility for all parties. When participating you must agree that you will not save, record, share, or post any portion of the video conferencing session. In the event that during the video conference you or your student obtains personally identifiable or confidential information regarding any student or teacher you are not to disclose it or use it in any way. If you do not agree to these terms, please do not participate in a video conferencing session and contact your student's teacher or principal to discuss further.

With this extended closure we are doing everything we can to provide your student(s) access to meaningful learning opportunities. We continue to acknowledge that everything we provide has some flaws, especially matching up to every household. We continue to appreciate your patience and collective spirit as we work through these uncharted areas of public education.

Respectfully,

Steven M. Lamarche
